

Elite Operators Meet Elite Competitors And Build Companies Together

Capital Forge League, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, pairs military veterans and elite athletes as equal co-founders to build sports-tech ventures, compete for recognition, and develop the discipline, leadership, and execution that turn service and sport into lasting wealth.

Why Veterans + Athletes

Capital Forge League is built on one core belief: The best

Veterans Bring:

- Operational discipline
- Strategic systems
- Leadership under pressure
- Crisis management

Merge this text use total width in to the header statement then move everything up on the page
Capital Forge League, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit, pairs military veterans and elite athletes as equal co-founders to build sports-tech ventures, compete for recognition, and develop the discipline, leadership, and execution that turn service and sport into lasting wealth
Through competitive, game-based programming, veteran-athlete founding teams:
Build real sports-tech ventures with real customers
Compete for recognition based on traction and execution
Master financial literacy through actual company operations
Graduate with equity in businesses they own outright.
y competing and building together, they also
Develop investor-ready pitch skills through live competition
Build networks with mentors, sponsors, and industry leaders
Gain real-world startup experience with zero upfront cost
Create lasting legacies beyond their athletic or military careers

Together = Companies neither could build alone.

Through competitive, game-based programming, veteran-athlete founding teams:

- Build real sports-tech ventures with real customers
- Compete for recognition based on traction and execution
- Master financial literacy through actual company operations
- Graduate with equity in businesses they own outright

By competing and building together, they also:

- Develop investor-ready pitch skills through live competition
- Build networks with mentors, sponsors, and industry leaders
- Gain real-world startup experience with zero upfront cost
- Create lasting legacies beyond their athletic or military careers